

FOURTH TROLLEY PROPOSITION BOILED UP IN MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL

NISBET'S ELECTRIC LINE REVIVED BY RUSH OF NEW COMPANIES ON SCENE

Another Company Applies For Franchise Through City--New Depository Selected For City Funds.

City Solons Transact Business Galore and Even Talk Over The Multiplicity of Canines at Large.

With three street railway companies organized and planning to enter Coshocton, the old one projected by Ed. A. Nesbit, of Pittsburg, was revived at the regular meeting of council Tuesday evening and Coshocton is veritably flooded with street railway projects.

Which of them will materialize remains to be seen.

Formal application for a franchise was made by the Zanesville, Coshocton and New Philadelphia Traction company.

The Coshocton National bank was awarded the contract of keeping the city's funds.

Clerk Wimmer opened the bids of the three local banks after the minutes of the last meeting had been read. The Commercial National bank offered 3 65 per cent interest, the Coshocton National offered 3.90 per cent and the People's bank offered 3.75.

As all the bids had been filed before twelve o'clock last Friday, according to law, a motion was made by Dr. McCurdy and seconded by Mr. Wisenburt to award the contract to the Coshocton National bank. The motion carried all voting aye.

The Board of Health had prepared an ordinance providing for the transfer of $100 from the general contingent fund to the quarantine fund to allow them to pay certain bills. As Mr. Pharion and Mr. Craig were absent there were not enough present to suspend the rules and pass the ordinance, but a moment later Mr. Pharion appeared and the ordinance was passed by a suspension of the rules.

Clerk Wimmer then read the application of the Zanesville, Coshocton and Philadelphia Traction company for a franchise.

It was addressed to the council and board of improvements of the city of Coshocton and signed by J. W. Cassingham, president of the company. The route in the city for which a franchise is asked is as follows: Beginning at the intersection of

WRONG MAN SAYS CASSIE

[By Telegraph to The Age.]

Cleveland, O., March 15.—A motion for a new trial has been filed by the attorneys for Mrs. Cassie Chadwick, and it is expected the arguments will be made Thursday. One of the causes in the motion is a protest against the jury. It is alleged that one Butler Crane was summoned to jury service, but never served nor did he appear nor was he sworn; but that one Bentley F. Crane appeared and was sworn as a jurymen or summoned. The full name of Jurymen Crane was understood throughout the trial to be Butler Crane. Another allegation is that newly discovered evidence is at hand which the defense could not with due prudence and diligence have discovered in time to present at the trial.

Trustee Looser of Chadwick estate paid the duty on a quantity of antique furniture valued at $1,000 which were in bond at the custom house and consigned to Mrs. Chadwick. Mr. Looser stated that the furniture would be sent to the Customhouse and

What Happened at Council Meeting

Fourth street railway proposition shows its head. J. W. Cassingham's company asks for franchise through the city. Coshocton National bank wins in contest to secure city funds and gives $300,000 personal bond. Gas light to supplant electricity in hall of city building. Fire works may be taboed on July 4th at next council meeting. Disposition of worthless dogs considered. Flagman may be established at W. & L. E. crossing on Cambridge street. Boards of health and public service secure additional funds. Improvement of Sixth and other streets discussed.

RUSSIANS REPULSE JAPS AT THE PASS FORTS

Oyama's Men Said to Have Met a Set-Back---French Refuse More Loans To Russia.

Future Loans to Czar Depend Upon Whether He Will Sue at Once For Peace.

[By Cable to The Age.]

London, March 15.—A dispatch to the Central News from Tse Ling states that the Japanese attacked the fortifications outside of that town, but were repulsed. It is believed the Japanese suffered heavy losses.

After the disastrous defeat at Mukden the Russians under General Kurapatkin retreated to Tie Pass. Evidently the Japanese have followed their enemy closely.

Purse String Tied

London, March 15.—The Daily Mail declares that the French government has given Parisian banking houses clearly to understand that they must not conclude the proposed Russian loan unless the czar is prepared to negotiate for peace.

St. Petersburg, March 15.—By delay in pressing his pursuit of Russia's army to the pass, Field Marshal Oyama has afforded General Kurapatkin time to sort out the disorganized units of his command and restore his forces to at least a semblance of order. So far as known there is no considerable force of Japanese nearer Tie pass than six or eight miles, but there is a feeling of apprehension that some turning movement, of which there is no definite information, is in progress. From Japanese sources it is reported that many straggling parties of Russians, cut off from their commands in the retreat from Mukden, are surrendering upon the appearance of Japanese troops.

The council of war summoned by Emperor Nicholas is reported to have

LAZARUS IS DUPLICATED

[By Telegraph to The Age.]

St. Louis, March 15.—After having been pronounced dead by two physicians and a nurse, Mrs. Charles A. Sweet, wife of a provision merchant, was restored by the infusion of a salt solution into her veins, and is now believed to be recovering her health. Five weeks ago Mrs. Sweet, suffering from gastritis, went to Hot Springs, Ark. On the night of Feb. 13 she seemed to be dying, and eventually her heart ceased beating and respiration stopped. She was pronounced dead. A third physician, however, decided to try a salt solution infusion, and after several hours of treatment

Judge Galloway to Give Lecture on Bobby Burns

An evening of rare pleasure may be anticipated, for Judge Tod B. Galloway, of Columbus, private secretary to Governor Herrick, has consented to give his lecture on Robert Burns in Coshocton for the benefit of the public library. Judge Galloway is noted as an eloquent speaker and his knowledge of the bonnie Scot bard is unusually profound. He will lecture on the life of Burns and will as well recite several of the poet's most noted verses. The judge will be accompanied by a Columbus pianist, and the evening will be interspersed with Scotch arias. It promises a charming literary event. It was decided to hold the affair in the rear room of the public library and keep the price down to the sum of 25 cents. The date was probably early in April. A committee of ladies from local clubs will be in charge.

Castro Stirs Up Trouble With France

Siezes Holdings Of French Cable Co.---Complications in Sight.

[By Telegraph to The Age.]

Washington, March 15.—A dispatch from Minister Bowen at Caracas confirms the report as to the proceedings against the French Cable company by the Venezuelan government. Mr. Bowen said: "A suit has been begun by the Venezuelan government against the French Cable company to annul its concession and seize its property." The state department officials know nothing of the merits of the case, but it is assumed that the action taken is similar to that in the case of the Bermudez Asphalt company, where the Venezuelan government declared that the company had forfeited its concession by failing to live up to its undertakings to exploit other resources of the country besides asphalt and to open certain rivers to navigation. No copy of the concession to the French Cable company is on file at the department, so that it is not possible to learn wherein the company has failed to meet the terms of the concession. The outcome of the case is looked forward to with some apprehension, for should the French government demand indemnity from Venezuela for its treatment of the cable company, its action might still further complicate the attempt to effect a settlement of the pending issue between the state department and Venezuela respecting the seizure of the properties of the Bermudez Asphalt company.

How Paris Views It.

Paris, March 15.—The reported action of President Castro of Venezuela relative to the French Cable company has caused surprise and indignation in official circles here, where the belief prevails that the situation may become serious if President Castro has gone so far as reported. The foreign office received a cable dispatch from Caracas indicating that the situation in regard to the cable company was strained, with the possibility that radical action might be taken. The situation is a delicate one, and the officials are inclined to refrain from comment, not desiring to complicate the situation. No thought yet has been given to the possibility of using warships, but several are available on the French West Indian station should circumstances require their use.

The "More Important" Things.

Jacob A. Riis said recently: "It is very important to the city to have a business man's mayor, but it is more important to have a working man's mayor. It is an excellent thing to have rapid transit, but it is a good deal more important, if you look at matters with a proper perspective, to have ample playgrounds in the poorer quarters of the city, and to take the children off the streets to prevent them from growing up toughs. In the same way it is an admirable thing to have clean streets; indeed, it is an essential thing to have them; but it would be a better thing to have our schools large enough to give ample accommodation to all should-be pupils, and to provide them with proper playgrounds."

Is Tucker-Anthony Behind One of Trolley Projects?

It is currently rumored on the streets that the Muskingum Coshocton and Tuscarawas Traction company, the trolley line projected from Zanesville through Coshocton to New Philadelphia, by Judge Adams and others, is in reality backed by the Tucker-Anthony syndicate of Boston the owners of the lines south from Cleveland to New Philadelphia. Diligent inquiry fails to fix the responsibility for the rumor or to authenticate it, although it is learned that the engineer for the company, Mr. Buell, is the Tucker-Anthony engineer. It is also stated by a Coshocton man in position to know, that the financial men back of the deal are men known in the traction world and that they are or have been connected with Tucker-Anthony propositions.

Here is hoping that all of them build! But what a pity the roads do not radiate from here, one going to Millersburg, another to Mt. Vernon and spread out instead of all aiming as straight as possible between two points.

DATE OF LIBRARY EXCURSION IS CHANGED TO AUGUST 5

It is quite likely that the date of the annual excursion will be Saturday August 6 instead of July 22 as first decided upon by the board of public library trustees.

It has been learned from the Pennsylvania headquarters that the equipment could not be secured for July 22 and therefore the other date has been tentatively selected. Final settlement will be determined when word comes from Pittsburg.

The board took under serious contemplation the proposition made by a business man in The Age that the excursion be held on the Fourth of July and thus make a gala day of an otherwise "off" day in business. The board endeavored to secure that date but the Pennsylvania people at once declared that such a proposition was entirely out of the question and that they could not handle Coshocton on that date at all.

It will be known within a few days if August 5 is obtainable. The objective point of the excursion has not yet been determined upon.

BRICK FELL OUT OF SKY ON LENTZ' HEAD

William Lentz, who is employed as a lineman by the Citizens' Telephone company, came very near taking a sudden dive into eternity while climbing a high pole near West Lafayette Monday.

He had climbed up to within about ten feet of the top when suddenly something struck him a hard blow hold but managed to cling to the pole. Then he looked down and saw the end of a brick which had been jammed off the cross-bar on the top of the pole and had dropped squarely on his head. Had he been a few feet lower down the brick would have killed him. He has gained nothing by his escape.

How To Gain The Happiness Of Children

Motherhood is woman's highest sphere in life. It is the fruition of her dearest hopes and most holy desires. Yet thousands of noble women, through the derangement of the female generative organs brought on by female weakness and disease, are unable to produce children!

Ninety-nine times out of every one hundred Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will so restore and strengthen the female organism as to make child bearing possible, easy, and safe.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

with its record of thousands of cures, is the remedy for women. Thousands of women are happy mothers of beautiful children to-day because in time of need they took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. No matter what your female weakness or disease, it will afford you speedy relief and cure. Every woman who desires to become a mother should read these letters:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I had been married seven years and had no children, owing to a female weakness and womb trouble, which caused me severe suffering each month. A lady advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did so, and now I have no more pains and am perfectly well, besides having a fine baby boy. MRS. ROSA F. KAREL, Ravenna, Neb.

Another happy and grateful mother writes to Mrs. Pinkham as follows:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I was very anxious for a child, but could not carry one to maturity. My husband advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and soon began to feel better in every way. I continued its use and was enabled to carry my next child to maturity. I now have a nice baby girl, and I feel like a new woman. MRS. FRANK BEYER, 22 S. Second St., Meriden, Conn.

Actual sterility in woman is very rare. If any woman thinks she is sterile, let her write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., whose advice is given free to all would-be and expectant mothers. Her letter will give you valuable information.

PARSON HUNT TELLS OF FORMER HUMANE SOCIETY

Interesting Narration of How it Was Formed And The Work it Did For Dumb Animals.

Editor Age: Observing the movement, as reported in your paper, for the formation of a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals I recall the fact that some twenty years ago such a society was organized in Coshocton. The meeting at which it was organized was held in the historic (brick) Presbyterian church. J. P. Forbes, who then (and perhaps yet) had as much interest in horses as now in automobiles, was made the president of the society and Charles B. Hunt secretary and counselor. For a half dozen years the name of the society appeared in the list published by the state society and even there comes to the secretary the Quarterly Magazine of one of the most liberally endowed and active societies of like sort in England. But public sentiment did not sustain the Coshocton society and it after two or three years died a slow death. Several cases of cruelty to horses and at least one of mistreatment of children were taken up and conditions improved. A dozen or two men and women subscribed fairly well to the funds but these were soon exhausted on printed matter and on the society's agent and police officer, etc. It was soon developed that very widely differing ideas prevailed as to what was cruelty. The sensitive young girl and the old liverman or farmer did not look at matters in the same light. Witness some times failed to substantiate charges. Jurors wanted their fees and attorneys theirs and obstacles unthought of and unprovided for presented themselves.

Soon after the Coshocton and other local societies was formed the general laws were changed making such societies less needful and while some very old societies still do some work very few have been formed in recent years. Any citizen can now enter complaint and make charge before any Justice of the Peace or other magistrate and any police officer can arrest or "view" just as much as he can arrest a noly or platin drunken man. Under the law as it now stands the expenses for fees can be paid out of the county treasury, so that there is no need of private subscriptions, unless to pay an agent and grease the wheels of the machine itself.

Like most benevolent and reform work this is not very highly appreciated and sometimes involves much annoyance. A few years ago I took, as one or two other occasions, a case in this business. I called on the mayor and he sent a police officer to look after a team of horses left standing, unblanketed in zero weather, unfed and without water many hours across the street from the Presbyterian parsonage. Towards morning the owner got his team by paying the arresting officer's fee and the charge for feed at a heavy stable. A few days after he was hot on the hunt of a lawyer to make me "swear." A little later he wrote me a letter threatening vengeance—told me I had been guilty of cruelty to a man, that in hunting for his horses and in riding home in the chill of the morning he had taken cold and barely escaped pneumonia, etc. Of course I was not much scared and did him come on but I did feel a little discouraged in my benevolent work. And although I am a minister of the merciful master and among the righteous, who (see Provs 12:30) always regard the life of their beasts I am not running before I am called to help out sworn and paid officials in the performance of their duties. The society which I was instrumental in starting long years ago did in common with many others in the state a good work in calling attention to the sin of cruelty to dumb beasts and helpless children and there may be work yet to be done in this line but simple humanity and personal quiet efforts may do more than rattling machinery.

The ministers of this town to say nothing of other good people are humane enough but without the multiplied churches, clubs, leagues, cliques and lodges and societies become numerous and not overcall and room for them all but there is a limit to human capacity and there are lessons of experience.

PIECE OF BONE ABOVE HIS EYE IS TAKEN OUT

Daniel Cox, of Willow Brook, for four years has been suffering with an abscess on his eye, that has been doctored in vain. Accompanied by D. G. Guillems, he went to Cleveland this week and consulted a specialist. The result was an operation. A bone above the eye, an inch and a half long and an inch wide, was removed by the surgeon, and Mr. Cox is said to be progressing nicely. He will remain a few days. Mr. Guillems came home Monday.

Popular Cartoons

The art of newspaper illustration in its present form is a development of recent years. Newspaper cartoons have become a most popular feature of up-to-date metropolitan daily papers. The unique and catchy drawing now appearing daily on the front page of the Chicago Record Herald is one of the many special features of the great paper. The Record-Herald has been fortunate in securing one of the best young artists in the country to carry out its popular policy of presenting each day a humorous and good-natured cartoon. Mr. Ralph Wilder is one of the coming men in newspaper work. His success has been as pronounced as it has been rapid. He shows all of the good-natured humor and the brighter side of every day common life which has carried his work to a very popular success. His drawings are on all of the various subjects of popular interest, political and otherwise. Current events are vividly portrayed in a way that pleases, yet always giving just criticism in a way that does not offend. Through his excellent work on eastern magazines Mr. Wilder first attracted universal attention. The Record-Herald recognized in him at once a cartoonist of unusual promise, and congratulated its readers on having been fortunate enough to engage him.

"The Beauty Doctor"

One of the sorts of shows that are attracting the public these days and incidentally bringing money to the promoters is the slap-stick musical comedy—not the kind that one pays $2.00 to see, but the one just a wee bit not so high in price. A mixture of songs, jokes—old and new—a tinge of a plot, and a good looking chorus—and all is ready for the manager to count the money. Such a show is "The Beauty Doctor" at the Auditorium this week and judging from last night's audience the performance will prove an attractive one during the week. And it really should, for of its kind, it is one of the best seen so far this year. According to the program five men had a finger in the pie of writing it, and all they claim—mind you, all five—is that the show is "merely a musical melange in two acts." As a matter of fact, that is all it is. The music is heard from the rise of the curtain to the finale, and it's music of the kind that pleases.

The plot deals with a woman of tender years and much beauty, who advertises herself as a doctor of beauty, whose ability lies in making the ugly handsome. She visits a seaside hotel, the proprietor of which is an old acquaintance, Solomon Cohen, the gentleman in question, is also a hypnotist. The doctor conceives the idea that Cohen could hypnotize the patients and thus make them believe themselves beautiful. This is the plot, but Cohen makes decidedly little use of his hypnotic powers.

Henrietta Lee, better known as the widow in one of the "Prince of Pilsen" companies, assumes the title role, and is an excellent walking testimonial for her art and beautifying. "Will" Philbrick, an old millionaire, is easily the best of the comedians. Philbrick has been seen here before and his eccentric dancing, better than ever is easily the hit of the show. In his efforts he is ably assisted by Miss Jessie Cardowio.

Harry Stanley, who plays the part of the detective, is a Baltimorean and lived for years in the eastern section of the city. Stanley shows an eccentric form of a German Sherlock Holmes that is vastly different from any thing seen here before.

A major portion of the chorus is of the "pony" variety. Manager Wright took care that each should know how to dance, and as a result their numbers are given with a dash and vim not usually characteristic of a chorus. Miss Ethel Smith, in particular, cavorts in a highly pleasing manner, and is a able leader of the "pony" ballet.

The song hit of the show is "The Pretty Little Maid of Zanzibar," which is sung by Mr. Charles P. Morrison and the Imperial quartette. A "culture" drill with illuminated Indian clubs, led by Miss Mollie Egbert, formerly a teacher of physical culture in the public schools of a Western city, is one of the most pleasing bits of the performance.

"York State Folks."

Plays of rural village life have been numerous in recent years, and have had varying success, the best of them achieving wide and sustained popularity. In no instance, however, has the verdict of the critics been more unanimous than in the case of Arthur S. Gorman's charming pastoral play, "York State Folks" which proved to be last four seasons' greatest success. The universal opinion has been that there is less exaggeration of country types in "York State Folks" than in any of the other productions, and that has perhaps been the chief reason for its phenomenal success. It is a simple story of village life with all the interest and humor of reality retained intact, and notable for the lack of artificiality which is characteristic of the "ham yard" drama.

"York State Folks" is a pure and wholesome play and one that will appeal to theatre-goers and non-theatre-goers alike. It is so clean and restful and those who see it once, want to see it again; it is a play that grows on one; the more one sees it, the more and more he will like it. "York State Folks," with its original cast and stage accessories will be presented the Sixth Street theatre soon.

GOT HIS BUMPS WHEN HE WENT OUT AFTER TROUBLE

A man itching for trouble sauntered into Ingraham's saloon, on East Chestnut street Tuesday afternoon and made known his want. He sought vigorously for a fight and was soon accommodated by a man of muscle who gave him all he wanted and then some. The man, it appears, has been looking for such an opening for several days and the fact that he got his "bumps" tended to spread satisfaction throughout the coterie.

CHAPTER XL.

BETWEEN Brandon in Suffolk and Thetford in Norfolk, in England, runs a quiet river, the Little Ouse, where few boats break the stillness of the water.

Three years after Etta's death, in the glow of an April sunset, a Canadian canoe was making its stealthy way up the river. The paddle crept in and out so gently, so lazily and peacefully, that the dabchicks and other water fowl did not cease their chatter of nests and other April matters as the canoe glided by.

So quiet, indeed, was its progress that Karl Steinmetz—suddenly white headed, as strong old men are apt to find themselves—did not heed its approach. He was sitting on the bank, with a gun, a little rifle, lying on the grass beside him. He was half asleep in the enjoyment of a large Havana cigar. The rays of the setting sun, peeping through the lower branches, made him blink lazily like a large, good natured cat.

He turned his head slowly, with a hunter's consciousness of the approach of some one, and contemplated the canoe with a sense of placid satisfaction. The small craft was passing in the shadow of a great tree—stealing over the dark, unruffled depth. A girl dressed in white, with a large diaphanous white hat and a general air of brisk English daintiness, was paddling slowly and with no great skill.

"A picture," said Steinmetz to himself with Teutonic deliberation. "Gott im Himmel, what a pretty picture to make an old man young!"

Then his gray eyes opened suddenly, and he rose to his feet.

"Coloss-a-ai!" he muttered. He dragged from his head a lamentable old straw hat and swept a courteous bow. "Mademoiselle," he said, "ah, what happiness! After three years!"

Maggie stopped and looked at him with troubled eyes. All the color slowly left her face.

"What are you doing here?" she asked. And there was something like fear in her voice.

"No harm, mademoiselle, but good. I have come down from big game to vermin. I have here a saloon rifle. I wait till a water rat comes, and then I shoot him."

The canoe had drifted closer to the land, the paddle trailing in the water.

"You are looking at my white hairs," he went on, in a sudden need of conversation. "Please bring your boat a little nearer."

The paddle twisted lazily in the water like a fish's tail.

"Hold tight," he said, reaching down. With a little laugh he lifted the canoe and its occupant far up on to the bank.

"Despite my white hairs," he said, with a tap of both hands on his broad chest.

"I attach no importance to them," she answered, taking his proffered hand and stepping over the light bulwark. "I have gray ones myself. I am getting old too."

"How old?" he asked, looking down at her with his old bluntness.

"Twenty-eight."

"Ah, they are summers," he said; "mine have turned to winters. Will you sit here where I was sitting? See, I will spread this rug for your white dress."

Maggie paused, looking through the trees toward the sinking sun. The light fell on her face and showed one or two lines which had not been there before. It showed a patient tenderness in the steady eyes which had always been there—which Catrina had noticed in the stormy days that were past.

"I cannot stay long," she replied. "I am with the Faueaux at Brandon for a few days. They dine at 7."

"Ah, her ladyship is a good friend of mine! You remember her charity ball in town, when it was settled that you should come to Osterno. A strange world, mademoiselle—a very strange world, so small and yet so large and bare for some of us!"

Maggie looked at him. Then she sat down.

"Tell me," she said, "all that has happened since then."

"I went back," answered Steinmetz, "and we were duly exiled from Russia. It was sure to come. We were too dangerous. Altogether too quixotic for an autocracy. For myself I did not mind, but it hurt Paul."

There was a little pause, while the water lapped and whispered at their feet.

"I heard," said Maggie at length in a measured voice, "that he had gone abroad for big game."

"Yes—to India."

"He did not go to America?" inquired Maggie indifferently. She was idly throwing fragments of wood into the river.

"No," answered Steinmetz, looking straight in front of him. "No, he did not go to America."

"And you?"

"I—oh, I stayed at home! I have taken a house. It is behind the trees. You cannot see it. I live at peace with all men and pay my bills every week. Steinmetz has come and stays with me. Steinmetz has come and stays with me."

You have heard that my country is in order again? They have remembered me. For my sins they have made me a count. Bon Dieu, I do not mind! They may make me a prince, if it pleases them."

He was watching her face beneath his grim old eyebrows.

"These details bore you," he said.

"No."

"When Paul and I are together we talk of a new heaven and a new Russia. But it will not come in our time. We are only the sowers, and the harvest is not yet. But I tell Paul that he has not sown wild oats nor sour grapes nor thistles."

He paused, and the expression of his face changed to one of semihumorous gravity.

"Mademoiselle," he went on, "it has been my lot to love the prince like a son. It has been my lot to stand helplessly by while he passed through many troubles. Perhaps the good God gave him all his troubles at first. Do you think so?"

Maggie was looking straight in front of her across the quiet river.

"Perhaps so," she said.

Steinmetz also stared in front of him during a little silence. The common thoughts of two minds may well be drawn together by the contemplation of a common object. Then he turned toward her.

"It will be a happiness for him to see you," he said quietly.

Maggie ceased breaking small branches and throwing them into the river. She ceased all movement and scarcely seemed to breathe.

"What do you mean?" she asked.

"He is staying with me here."

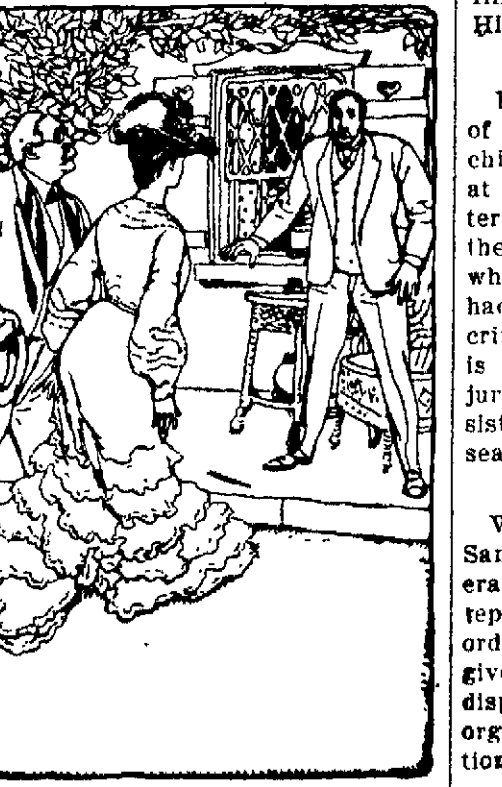

Maggie glanced toward the canoe. She drew a short, sharp breath, but she did not move.

"Mademoiselle," said Steinmetz earnestly, "I am an old man, and in my time I have dabbled pretty deeply in trouble. But, taking it all around, even my life has had its compensations. And I have seen lives which, taken as a mere mortal existence, without looking to the hereafter at all, have been quite worth the living. There is much happiness in life to make up for the rest. But that happiness must be firmly held. It is so easily slipped through the fingers. A little irresolution; a little want of moral courage, a little pride, and it is lost. You follow me?"

Maggie nodded. There was a great tenderness in her eyes—such a tenderness as, resting on men, may bring them nearer to the angels.

Steinmetz laid his large hand over hers.

"Mademoiselle," he went on, "I believe that the good God sent you along

"It is mademoiselle!"

this lonely river in your boat. Paul leaves me tomorrow. His arrangements are to go to India and shoot tigers. He will sail in a week. There are things of which we never speak together; there is one name that is never mentioned. Since Osterno you have avoided meeting him. God knows I am not asking for him anything that he would be afraid to ask for himself. But he also has his pride. He will not force himself in where he thinks his presence unwelcome."

Steinmetz rose somewhat ponderously and stood looking down at her. He did not, however, succeed in meeting her eyes.

"Mademoiselle," he said, "I beg of you most humbly—most respectfully—to come through the garden with me toward the house, so that Paul may at least know that you are here."

He moved away and stood for a moment with his back turned to her, looking toward the house. The crisp rustle of her dress came to him as she rose to her feet.

Without looking round he walked slowly on. The path through the trees was narrow; two could not walk abreast. After a few yards Steinmetz emerged on to a large, sloping lawn with a cover bed and a long, low house above it. On the ground between a small stream in a low valley. From out the hills are still now our dead."

They approached over the mossy turf, and presently Paul looked up, a strong face, stern and self contained, the face of a man who would always have a purpose in life, who would never be petty in thought or deed.

For a moment he did not seem to recognize them. Then he rose, and the pen fell on the flags of the terrace.

"It is mademoiselle!" said Steinmetz, and no other word was spoken.

Maggie walked on in a sort of unconsciousness. She only knew that they were all acting an inevitable part, written for them in the great libretto of life. She never noticed that Steinmetz had left her side; that she was walking across the lawn alone.

Paul came to meet her and took her hand in silence. There was so much to say that words seemed suddenly valueless; there was so little to say that they were unnecessary.

For that which these two had to tell each other cannot be told in minutes nor yet in years. It cannot even be told in a lifetime, for it is endless, and it runs through eternity.

THE END.

Hill's Argument.
Alany, N. Y., March 15.—While senators, assemblymen and state officers were being turned away from the door on account of lack of room inside, Albert T. Patrick sat before the robed judges of the court of appeals and heard former Senator David B. Hill argue an appeal from the judgment convicting Patrick of the murder of William M. Rice, the New York millionaire. Patrick's original intention was to address the court, but upon the advice of his counsel he remained silent, contenting himself with listening to the argument.

Wisconsin Insurance Bill.
Madison, Wis., March 15.—A bill to compel every life insurance company doing business in Wisconsin to adopt the mutual plan passed the assembly, and will now go to the senate. The bill applies to outside companies doing business in the state as well as to the Wisconsin companies. The bill will in no way affect existing policies, but all new business must be done according to the mutual plan.

Looked For Leak With Lamp.
Pittsburg, Pa., March 15.—As the result of a gas explosion at the home of Jacob Bittzer on Breeds Hill street Mrs. Bittzer was burned to death, Amelia Hopkins, a friend, was fatally injured, and two houses were completely wrecked. Several firemen were slightly hurt by the roof falling in. The explosion was caused by the two women hunting for the leak with a lighted oil lamp.

Hoch Writ Withdrawn.
Chicago, March 15.—A writ of habeas corpus seeking the release of Johann Hoch, the multi-bligamist, was withdrawn. Counsel for Hoch stated that the reason for the withdrawal was that there was apparently nothing to gain by the writ. Hoch was present during the proceedings.

Plow Manufacturer.
Bloomington, Ill., March 15.—Abram Brokaw, a pioneer plow manufacturer, one of the wealthiest men in central Illinois, is dead. He was 90 years old. His estate is valued at $2,000,000.

Foul Crime.
Philadelphia, March 15.—The body of Mary Deluka, a four-year-old Italian child, was found in a blacksmith shop at a stone quarry at Howeville, Chester county. Beside the body was found the seven-year-old brother of the girl, who was unconscious from injuries he had received. The girl had been criminally assaulted and killed, and it is supposed the boy received his injuries while attempting to defend his sister. The boy is dying. A posse is searching for the assailant.

Gompers' Report.
Washington, March 15.—President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor submitted his annual report to the executive council of that order, now in session in this city. It gives the details of the settlement of disputes and shows the finances of the organization to be in excellent condition.

Not Misjudged.
"You misjudge me," said the hypocrite reproachfully. "I admit I am a poor, weak mortal, but lying is not one of my failings."

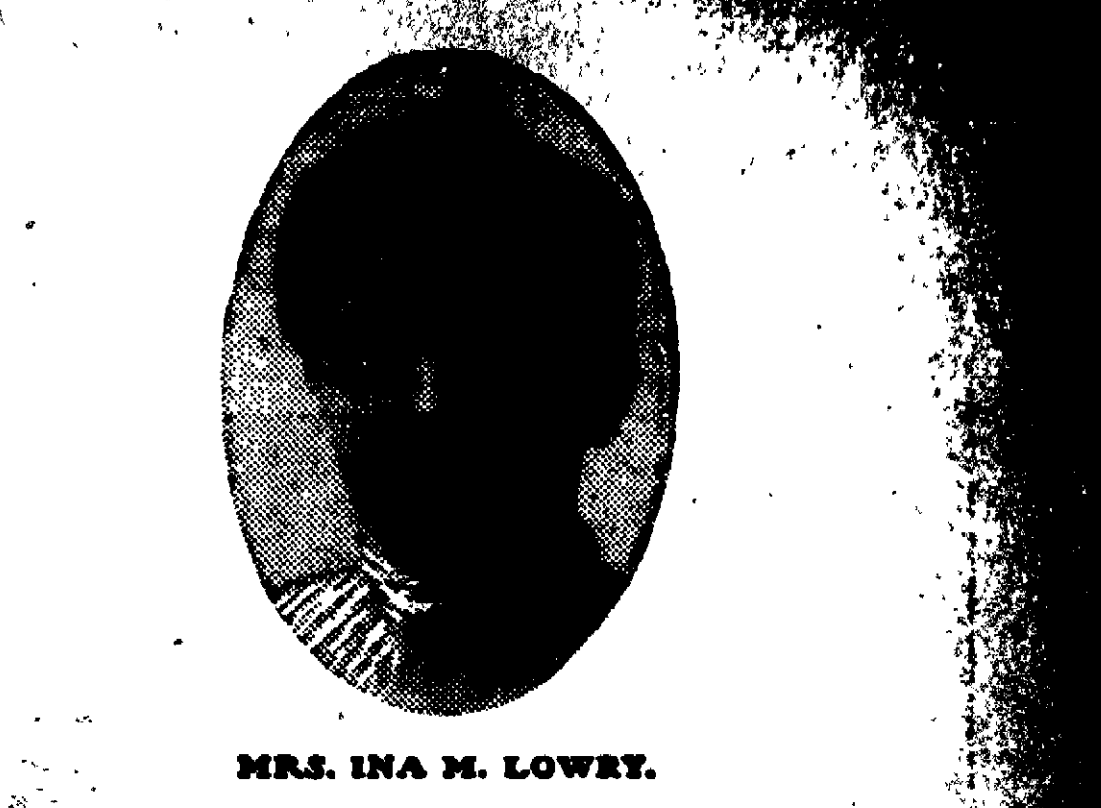

"It certainly is not," agreed the hard hearted man. "It is one of your successes."

You Can Feel Better at Once!

When everything seems an effort, when you feel tired most of the time, when you wake up every morning as tired as when you went to bed,—then there is something wrong.

Nature is protesting against some neglect, or some abuse.

Nature protests more often against nerve neglect than any other cause.

Remember, your strength is not in your muscles—the muscles simply work when the Nerve Force tells them to.

Even your brain does not work by itself—the substance in your brain cells must have energy to do its work; this energy must be nerve force—the same great power-of-life that controls every organ of the body.

Every form of weakness, or sickness, or disease, comes from a lack of Nerve Force to keep the organs working properly.

When one speaks of "a good constitution," one simply means a strong, healthy nerve system.

When the nerve system is not strong and well-nourished, it follows inevitably that one is easily "over-worked"—easily run down—just as Mrs. Lowry describes.

"For several months my system had been run down and I felt all worn out, tired, did not feel able to get out of bed in the morning and felt just as tired when I got up as when I retired. Had no appetite and looked pale and sallow. A friend who had used Paine's Celery Compound a couple of years ago, and who recommended it very highly, induced me to try it. I felt better at once and I found that at the end of six weeks it had changed me into a well woman, and I cannot say too much in its praise. I shall take a bottle every Spring and Fall and feel sure that it is all the medicine I shall need. Very truly yours,"—Mrs. Ina M. Lowry, 3109 Dunham Ave., Kansas City, Mo. (Worthy Matron Order of Eastern Star; Rec. Sec. Kansas City Friendly Aid Society.)

Paine's Celery Compound is giving new Nerve Force to thousands every day by feeding and restoring the nerves to their full strength. It never fails to build up the run down system to full, ruddy health.

Two days' treatment proves its marvelous power. You feel better at once.

Try Paine's Celery Compound to-day. Take just one dose when you go to face the hard part of the day's trials.

See how much better you feel.

See how much more easily the trials roll away.

Paine's Celery Compound feeds the nerves—restores them to their strength—gives them new power to send vitality and health to every part of your body, new courage to your heart, new animation to your brain.

Remember this—Paine's Celery Compound is the prescription of one of the most famous physicians this country has ever known, Prof. E. E. Phelps, of Dartmouth University.

All reputable druggists recommend and sell Paine's Celery Compound.

[By Telegraph to The Age.]

Collier Found Guilty.
Columbus, O., March 15.—The jury in the criminal court returned a verdict of guilty in the case of George M. Collier, indicted for embezzling state funds to the amount of $1,450. Notice of a motion for a new trial was immediately given by C. D. Saviers, Collier's attorney, and bond was fixed at $3,500, in default of which Collier was sent to jail.

Wife of Clerk Scooby Dead.
Hot Springs, Ark., March 15.—Mrs. Scooby, wife of F. E. Scooby of Troy, O., clerk of the Ohio state senate, died here, following an operation. Mr. Scooby, who has been here for the past month in search of health, will accompany the body to Troy, O., where the funeral will occur Friday afternoon.

Colonel Neal Stricken.
Hamilton, O., March 15.—Colonel James E. Neal, former American consul general at Liverpool, England, suffered from a stroke of paralysis here and his condition is believed to be serious. Colonel Neal is a prominent Democratic politician and a lawyer, with offices here and in Cincinnati.

Plotting Against Sultan.
Constantinople, March 15.—Another palace intrigue, so common in the sultan's entourage, resulted in the sudden flight of a trio of high Ottoman officials, Generals Ahmet Pasha and Riza Pasha, aide de camp of the sultan, and Arif Bey, his majesty's chamberlain. It is said the three officials fled abroad to escape the machinations of a secret police cabal at the Yildiz kiosk, said to be bent on their destruction. Riza Pasha was recently attacked and wounded on a street by a gang of men. The assault is alleged to have been instigated by the chief of the secret police.

Cannon Excommunicated.
Salt Lake City, March 15.—The controversy of former United States Senator Frank J. Cannon, editor of the Salt Lake Tribune, with the authorities of the Mormon church, an incident of which was the withdrawal of fellowship from Mr. Cannon by the bishops' court at Ogden, resulted in a formal order from the high council of the Weber Stake at Zion in Utah, sitting in Ogden, excommunicating Mr. Cannon from the church. The action was based on editorialial writings by Editor Cannon assailing the policy of the higher authorities of the church.

THE WAR CONTINUES.
The message from St. Petersburg is that the Czar and the bureaucracy element can see no other course open to Russia but to fight it out to the bitter end. It is quite consistent with Russian diplomacy that while this word goes out to the press arrangements looking to negotiations for peace may be going on under the surface. It is useless speculating on the probabilities of an early peace and the Japanese statesmen and generals are wasting no time or thought over such considerations. They are intent upon the destruction of Kuro-patkin's entire army.
The situation today is not materially changed from that outlined at the close of last week. A portion of the or a third of the forces lately "impregnably" entrenched on the plains of Mukden, is at Tie Pass. Kuropatkin's army is not only now cut down nearly one half, it has lost supplies, munitions, guns to an enormous extent. Moreover it has lost confidence in its generals and acquired a fixed habit of retreating. The Japanese generals are not stopping to count their gains or losses; they are pushing on to Tie Pass and beyond. Kuropatkin is not safe yet.

Curious Chinese Prejudice.
In the course of business certain London banks have occasion to send out large sums in gold coin to China.
No sovereigns, however, will be accepted which have St. George and the dragon on the reverse side. The dragon plays a leading part in religious matters in China, and its figure on the coin is abhorrent to the Celestial mind.
The London consignees have therefore to pick out the older coins, having a shield on the reverse side, for transmission to the east.

EVENING SMILE

An Illustrated Ad.

A QUEER FISH.

The Now Scarce Dugong is the Mermaid of Fabled Lore.
The strangest of all strange fish must surely be the manatee and the dugong.
The latter is the mermaid of fabled lore. The dugong live in flocks along the shores of the Indian ocean, the Red sea and the gulf of Mannar, where they browse on seaweed and river vegetation. They are very affectionate in disposition, and especially is this shown in the love of the mother for her offspring, which is much stronger than the instinct of self preservation. Neither will the male leave the female if she be attacked, and instances are on record where the companions of the manatee gathered round and made an effort to withdraw the deadly harpoon.
It is supposed that the rude approach to the human outline observed in the shape of the head of the dugong, the attitude of the mother in clasping her young to her breast with one flipper while swimming with the other, holding both above water, and suddenly diving and showing her fishlike tail when alarmed, gave rise to the mermaid myth, first told by the Arab seamen. Jules Verne gives a thrilling description of the capture of a dugong in the Red sea, when its flesh was desired as food. Naturalists tell us that the flesh of the manatee and the dug-ong much resembles well fattened pork, of pleasant flavor, and is highly esteemed as food. For this reason they were much hunted and are fast becoming extinct.—Field and Stream.

No Such Thing as Overwork.
Do we suffer from overwork? A practical method of determining the measure of fatigue is to trace the tired feeling to its source. We may learn that what we have been calling overwork is nothing more than lack of the city hall. The city hall is on street, thence westerly, along Chestnut street to Main street; thence west on Main street to the city line;

also beginning at the intersection of Main and Third streets; thence south on Third street to Pine street;
thence east on Pine street to Tenth street; thence south on Tenth street to Kenilworth avenue; thence east on Kenilworth avenue to the east corporation line; thence through some private right of way and north on Sixteenth street to Orange; thence west on the line of Orange street projected upon the alley and private right of way along the north line of out lot No. 167 and outlot 143 to the right of way of the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad, thence crossing said right of way on the line of Orange street extended to the center line of Cambridge street to the intersection of Walnut and Eleventh streets; thence north on Eleventh street to East Main street; thence west on East Main street to Main street; the number of tracks on each street to be one, except where two are specified, said grant to be for twenty-five years.
Judge R. M. Voorhees was present and on behalf of the company requested the council to have the notice of the application for a franchise published and agreed that the company should bear the expense of publication.
The notice is one of the preliminary steps in the securing of a franchise and there is Nothing Binding
about it.
At first Judge Voorhees suggested that the successful applicant for a franchise be made to pay the expense of publication of the notice but council preferred to have each company to carry its own expense account as Mr Nesbit did last summer. Judge Voorhees acquiesced in their wishes and said either way was acceptable to his company.
Meanwhile F. E. Pomerene asked the council concerning the bond which the Coshocton National bank would be asked to Furnish As Security
for the city funds. He explained that under the old law the bond of a surety company had to be given but that this law has been held unconstitutional by the supreme court and now either a surety bond or a good and sufficient personal bond may be given. The bond must be twenty per cent in excess of the money on deposit. He said the bank could give a good personal bond with the directors of the bank on it or a surety bond, just as council preferred.
Solicitor Hahn was asked for an opinion and stated that he believed the personal bond would do just as well as the surety bond. Mr. Pome-rene agreed that the bank would give security equal to $300,000 and upon a motion of Dr. McCurdy his proposition was accepted.
W. S. Hutchinson of the Board of Public Service
asked that seventy dollars be transferred from the contingent fund to the city building lighting fund. The money derived from the Salvation Army which holds its meetings in the city hall goes into the contingent fund and cannot be used until a transfer is made. Mr. Hutchinson asked that $500 be transferred from the water works contingent fund to the supplies and rent fund for the purpose of extensions and improvements which are made each summer.
He said that the manufacturers are always rushed later in the season and it is customary to buy the supplies in the winter or spring. He also asked that fifty dollars be transferred from contingent fund to the sewer fund for sewer material. Clerk Wimmer formulated a resolution covering the requests made by Mr. Hutchinson and by a suspension of the rules
it was passed.
The question
Lighting the City Hall with gas instead of electricity was then taken up. The gas franchise granted by the city council provides that the city building shall be lighted free of charge. Mr. Hutchinson said the board had supposed gas would not be so acceptable by the officers down stairs and hence the change had never been made but that the board was perfectly willing to do so if council so desired. The expense of equipping the city hall for gas was estimated at fifty dollars and electricity will still be used in the mayor's office and the city prison. Dr. Mc-Curdy made a motion recommending that the board of public service install gas upstairs and the motion carried all voting aye.

Trolley Number 4.

Dr. McCurdy then introduced Mr.
Hutchinson, of Pittsburgh, the same gentleman, who was in Coshocton about a month ago seeking a location for a mammoth chain mill. Mr.
Hutchinson said that he saw Mr.
Nesbit in Pittsburgh shortly after his recent visit to Coshocton and learned that the men who were behind Mr.
Nesbit were the same as those with whom he himself was connected. He explained that for some reason the western capitalists who backed Mr.
Nesbit last summer had gone back on him but that at present he was in a Position to Finance

the street railway if a franchise were granted him and desired to note the present status of affairs. Mr.
Hutchinson was informed that Mr.
Nesbit had been asked to put up a bond of $1000 as evidence of good faith before the franchise was granted and that he had failed to do so. Hence the matter has been dropped.
He was told that the council was disposed to treat all applicants fairly and that the aim would be to give Coshocton the best possible street railway. Mr. Hutchinson said he was in a position to put up the necessary bond now and begin work on the railway. He asked for a short time to look over the situation. He was assured that no franchise would be granted until he was ready.

Use of Fireworks

would be permitted in Coshocton hereafter on the Fourth of July, as a salesman representing a fireworks concern is in the city and the merchants want to know whether to purchase fire crackers and torpedoes.
This brought up the old ordinance prepared by Solicitor Hahn several months ago and at present in the hands of Mr. Denzer. The objectionable feature of it was that it was too stringent and provided against bonfires and many other things. It will be taken up at the next meeting probably and an ordinance prohibiting the storing of dynamite and shooting fire crackers will be passed.
Mr. Robertson spoke of the multitude of Worthless Dogs.
in the city and suggested that some of them be gotten rid of as they are becoming a nuisance. Mayor Rinner spoke of the old ordinance and said the only reason he had not enforced it was because is provided that the owner of a dog must either have a collar and tag put on it, these to be furnished by the mayor, or have his dog registered with the county auditor. He said he did not care to bear the expense of buying the tags himself and hence nothing had ever been done although he has been constantly

CAMELS HAD BIG TIME AT NEWARK JUBILEE

The members of the local lodge of Camels who attended the meeting at Newark on Tuesday evening report an elegant time and are loud in the expressions of the welcome they received. About five hundred men were in the parade which was about a mile long. The display of fireworks was very fine and was viewed by thousands.
Five candidates were initiated receiving the first and second degree the second degree being conferred by the Coshocton lodge. The degree work was followed by an elaborate banquet.
A delegation of seventy men attended from Zanesville but the Mansfield lodge was unable to attend because of a bad wreck on the B. & O. railroad.
Newark is considered one of the greatest Camels towns in Ohio and added to its laurels last evening.
The Coshocton men arrived home on number eight and among those in the party were: Dr. Merriam, W.

Slingers of Greece.
The Acarnanians were considered the most skillful slingers of Greece. These weapons were used not only to throw stones, but balls of lead, and in some localities, especially in the plain of Marathon, many of these metal projectiles have been found. The relics are interesting from the inscriptions and devices cut upon them, which consist of the names of persons and appropriate epithets, the legend in many cases meaning when fully translated "Look out!"

SOCIETY CHATS

THE CALENDAR

Today—Mrs. A. N. Compton, Mrs. William Compton and Miss Jennie Compton entertained at cards this afternoon at Mrs. William Compton's home.

Tomorrow—The Elk Minstrels at the Sixth Street theatre.

Meeting Postponed

The meeting of the Humane Society which was announced for next Thursday evening at the library will be held instead next Tuesday evening. The change was made because of George Wendling's lecture at Grace church.

Rathbone Sisters

The Rathbone Sisters held an excellent meeting on Tuesday evening nothing but routine business being transacted. The members are busy with plans for their social which was to have been given last evening but has been postponed until the next regular meeting night of the lodge which will be in two weeks.

Social Circle

The Young People's Social Circle of the Eleventh Street Church of Christ met on Tuesday evening with the Misses Laura and Cozette Fisher of Burt avenue. A cleverly arranged floral guessing contest created much merriment and the supper was served from daintily decorated tables the menu cards being especially unique.

The circle will meet next in two weeks with Misses Zoe and Ethel Shraake.

Supper a Success

The success of the supper which the ladies of Grace church held on Tuesday evening was unprecedented in the history of the church.

At least $200 was cleared.

A bazaar was held in connection with the supper and the array of things both useful and ornamental which was on display was large. They were shown in the second floor of the old church and the room they were in was attractively decorated with flags and corn.

In adjoining room gay with screens an dancy drapery the ice cream was served. The supper was served in the basement and the constant stream of people kept the tables well filled and the waitresses extremely busy.

The success of it all, not only financially but socially, makes them all feel amply repaid for their labor.

Vice president, Miss Jessie Brown.
Secretary, Miss Kate Schaub.
Treasurer, J. T. Bretzlius.
They will assume the duties of their office the first of April and keep them for the next six months.

Following the election and entertaining but short program was given consisting of a recitation by Miss Vernie Young, a song by Miss Margaret Tway and short addresses by Edward Roberts who spoke of the Nile, J. T. Bretzlius on the American Indian and Mrs. Tway on the Blarney Stone.

First Birthday

Raymond McVey Hay celebrated his first birthday on Tuesday and the happy event was made the occasion of a beautiful little dinner party given by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hay the guest being Benj. Ricketts and his parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ricketts.

While it is quite possible and more than probable that the youthful host and his guest were not given an opportunity to judge the full merits of the feast they both seemed to enjoy themselves thoroughly.

The crowning glory of the dinner was the birthday cake with its one candle which was sent down from Walhonding by the Grandmother McVey.

Quiet Stitches

The Quiet Stitches met on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Edward Colorado of North Eighth street. The ladies were all there and one guest, Mrs. Havebeck, as well. The hour or so spent over the stitching passed very pleasantly and dainty refreshments were served. The next meeting will be in two weeks with Mrs. Brightman.

Home Study Club

The Home Study club met on Tuesday evening with Mrs. George Irwin and while the attendance was not so large as usual the evening was a very interesting one. Current events were given in response to roll call and the only paper of the evening was by Mrs. Flora Foster who had for her subject "The President's Inaugural Address." In connection with an account of the address she spoke of many incidents of the incoming administration and at her request Miss Emma Manner read the address the president delivered before the National Congress of Mothers a few days ago. The ideas he advanced brought up those taught by Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman and an animated discussion of the respective merits and demerits of the two followed.

The hostess served refreshments after which the club adjourned to meet March the twenty-eighth with Miss Cave.

The annual business meeting will be held the eleventh of April and preparatory to that an informal discussion of the work the circle may undertake next year was held last evening.

The Oyster Club

A number of young ladies styling themselves the Oyster Club were entertained by Miss Fannie Weaver at her home on Chestnut street Tuesday evening. Those present were Miss Mary Gilhooley, of Roncove, Va., Miss Sue Manning, Miss Ella Conerty, Miss Margaret O'Harron and Miss Anna McCarroll. Miss Coral Welter was a guest of the club.

M. Q. Baker is in Newark on business.

Miss Bertha Carr of Warsaw spent last evening with her sister Miss Welthea Carr.

S. C. Kinsler is in Warsaw. Mr. and Mrs. M. Yingling of Newcomerstown who have been visiting Mrs. Haller, returned home today.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Householder of Utica are in the city today.

W. S. Merrel is in Adamsville.

Frank C. Doty of Coshocton is visiting his mother Mrs. M. A. Doty of Adamsville road—Zanesville Times Recorder.

Will Crawford, familiarly known as "Forney" left at noon for Columbus where he expects to accept a position on the Big Four railroad.

R. M. Courley of Harrisburg, Pa. was in Coshocton Tuesday.

Miss Bessie Gamble spent Sunday in Columbus with her cousin Miss Jennie Gamble.

Vincent McCleary of Dennison is spending a few days in this city.

Feminine Snapshots

What Women Are Saying and Doing

Queen creatures are women—at least some women! Not long ago one of the richest women in the world, of course, an American—one, too, who has made her immense fortune herself by her own shrewdness and strict attention to business for over thirty years—shot off a set of opinions on the subject of the feminine sex engaging in commercial enterprises. "A woman's place is at home with her family. She has no business to go into business. Every woman without exception ought to learn to cook," said this astonishing feminine person, whose practice for a quarter of a century had been the direct opposite of such preaching. It looks—it really does—as if this woman, who has accumulated her own millions, were jealous of a possible woman rival in the business world, so is trying to keep the rest of her sex out of the field in which she has beaten all but a few even of her men competitors. Then there is another woman, a stunning figure on the professional stage. Madam has also accumulated a noble fortune, lives in splendor and rides in her own automobile. Besides that, she has also enjoyed the inestimable privilege of supporting a husband in luxury for twenty years. She, too, bejeweled and surrounded with everything that money can buy—won, mind you, every dollar, by her own exertion—lifts up her voice in a dismal howl against women who enter the money earning ranks. She herself has earned more money than one man out of a million is able to do, yet she wrings her hands and fairly sobs over the shame, the misery and the pity of woman's going out to work for money. They are incompetent creatures, to begin, going out to work for money, says she, and if they only wouldn't do it men would support them all. If this successful woman knew or cared anything at all about real industrial conditions, she would know it was only because men could not support them any longer that women entered the money earning field. It looks as if the stage lady also were trying to keep possible sister rivals out of her field.

Every woman ought to have a gymnasium suit to wear at home when performing work requiring special strength and activity. It would do away with half the weariness resulting from doing heavy work in woman's ordinary dress. The sense of lightness and ease felt in wearing such a costume no woman knows until she has tried it.

If you have some worthy object of attainment in view never yield to discouragement concerning the outcome, no matter how long you have to work and wait for results. Every good thing comes by and by.

"I would not for any consideration hurt anybody's feelings," says Mrs. Fanny Hallock Carpenter, president of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Don't do things you are ashamed of; then you can never be caught at it.

Perfect health of the body consists in being unconscious of it.

Here is a pertinent remark from the Chicago Legal News: "It seems strange that women can be lawyers, doctors and ministers and yet, according to the laws of many states, do not know enough to vote."

At last that noble Roman of a woman, Moll Pitcher, who shouldered her slain husband's musket and fought at the battle of Monmouth, is to have a monument. The heroine of the Revolution is buried at Carlisle, Pa., and while her grave is well known, it has hitherto been unmarked in any way. Now, however, a fitting monument to the brave old girl—a large cannon—is to be set up by the citizens of Carlisle at the head of her grave. The United States war department donates the cannon.

Every woman who can work ought to do so. The obligation is on her as a human being to do something useful.

A girl lately wrote a long letter to an editor complaining that she was not happy. Who is?

Living, loving, learning—that is how to go through life, helping as we go others all along the way.

Is it not about time for women to blow up for good and all that old hypocritical pretense of so many that they don't have to work for a living, but just do it so as to have something wherewith to put in the time? Where this is really the case people don't say anything about it. When I hear a woman say she only works for entertainment I always think of the lady who once told me she kept boarders "for company." At the same time it was notable that she charged the highest market price for the meagerest food and accommodations. The thing for women to be ashamed of is that they don't do any work. Useful occupation is the only thing that counts. Every indi-

The Ransom Dry Goods

Gravely we have listened to the authorities when they told us that separate and shirt waists are entirely out of style, but here we have in the newest of the spring garments the largest and the prettiest stock of such things I have ever seen. And the style varies with every one of them. Some have regular Garibaldi straps down the shoulders, while others show set straps all the way down the sleeves, starting from the neck band. The bishop sleeve still holds its own and is apparently better liked than any other. There are slight differences, such as wide or narrow cuffs and full gathered tops or tucked ones. Some sleeves have three and four puffs ending in a ruffle of some kind, lace generally.

The leg o' mutton sleeve is back to stay, and between it and the big baggy bishop sleeve the leg o' mutton is to be chosen. A novelty in a sleeve of this kind is shown in the illustration. The upper part of the sleeve is cut very snug, and it is therefore open from the bend of the elbow down and buttons all along. The line of buttons comes just back of the seam, and as the buttons are brighter than the material they form a sort of trimming. The waist of which this sleeve is the adjunct is of coin spotted velutina in a deep, rich damson prune. It is cut away at the neck and has a wide band of plain black velutina, this overlaid with point lace. Still above this is the chemisette of lace over an inset of cream silk. The belt is a cruel affair, built on the tight foundation.

For an afternoon tea there is a dainty device in the form of a light printed silk with deliciously vague designs in tints and colors on a white ground. This has a yoke simulated by shirtings, in which fine pipings are run and drawn up in such a way as to outline the yoke. The top is finished with a lace stock, and the cuffs are made in the same way. The sleeves are plain bishop. The shirting at the top and the gathers at the bottom of the waist mold the waist to the form, and a shirred belt finishes it.

For evening there are many designs of waists of different materials. One had a short Eton of plaids of light figured silk over plain satin to match the material in the skirt. The sleeves were of the figured silk, with lace at the elbow.

Some of the street costumes have separate waists, cut in various styles. One, which was developed in several different materials and colors, had a regular basque shape and extended ten or twelve inches below the belt. The back was shirred in the center at the waist line and along the sides to the front, which was open to show a lace vest front, with a narrow pointed belt. The revers were of a soft shade of tan to match the lightest shade in the brocade of the basque. This also had bishop sleeves, with lace cuffs.

For more ordinary requirements we may find hundreds of different waists, mostly on the shirt waist plan. These have plaits somehow or somewhere. In one instance I noticed a dainty waist of white wash silk, with three hemstitched tucks just above the belt running around the waist, while at the shoulders there were three lengthwise tucks. The sleeves, just at the elbow, had three tucks each an inch wide and were finished in bishop form, with lace cuffs.

In the mercerized cheviot we find many very stylish and comparatively inexpensive waists. The general plan of these is to have three tucks on each side of the front and a wide center ornamented with several fancy buttons and stitching. There are tucks at the tops and bottoms of the sleeves, which are always bishop. Stocks are made to match or fancy stocks may be worn. The plaits are narrow in these and do not reach very far down.

Another pleasing general fashion is the waist with wide box plaits which reach from shoulder to waist line—one on each side, one in the middle in front and two in the back. A plain lace stock finishes these prettily. The sleeves are bishop and simply gathered at the shoulder and wrist. Lace cuffs, of course.

Aside from these waists there are so many that no one could tell all about them, but a woman can have any kind of a waist she wants if she will bear in mind that there is little pushing in the market. There is a certain amount

Mr. John Heft and daughter, Clara, and Miss Maggie Severns had a serious misfortune Saturday night as they were returning home from Coshocton. They did not reach home until after dark and were crossing the large stone culvert at the foot of the hill which goes past Mr. Severn's home when one of the horses walked off of the end of the culvert and fell a distance of about five feet, breaking the neck-yoke and pole of the surry which narrowly missed being upset as the wheels were but a few inches from the end of the culvert. They called their nearby neighbor, Mr. Theo. Van Kennel and his hand, Theodore Carter, to help get the horse out which was uninjured.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For Lady's Blouse Designed by Martha Dean

Blouses for the tailor and separate skirt are as indispensable as ever and show no loss of their prestige. The yoke effects seem to be more in favor than any other design this season. There are so many styles to choose from and mean so little in the making that it is not surprising that yokes have taken the place of big collars, that were always in the way when one wore a coat. In the model here shown we have a little yoke that is both new in design and exceedingly smart in cut. The deep round scallops afford a place for a bit of decoration either in embroidered motifs, medallions or buttons. The blouse is made with a cluster of tucks at the shoulder. The sleeve is the new "shirt waist leg o' mutton" and is finished by a cuff which corresponds with the yoke shaping. For a plain tucked waist one need not use the yoke. Thus one can make two separate designs from the same pattern and each be entirely different appearing from the other. Any of the new waists in cotton or silk may be advantageously used in the design, for by using pings of contrasting shade one is independent of expensive trimmings. Pattern No. 624. Sizes, 2 to 42 inches bust measure.

SAN DOMINGAN TREATY DOOMED

Democrats to Line Up Solidly Against It.

POLITICS CREEPS INTO THE DEBATE

Senator Gorman Gives Notice That a Number of Democratic Senators, Heretofore Counted as Friends of the Dominican Document, Are Now Pledging Against It.

[By Telegraph to The Age.]

Washington, March 15. — Democratic senators who have been reported as likely to support the San Domingan treaty, will return to the fold, it is said, and on both sides of the chamber it is admitted there is little prospect that the convention will be ratified. The Republicans have been depending on some Democratic support, and have counted as certain the votes of Senators McEnery and Foster of Louisiana and Clarke of Arkansas. Senator Gorman, the minority leader, has given notice that these senators are now pledged against the treaty, and it was stated that Senator McEnery will recall his telegram authorizing Senator Cullom to pair him for the convention. It is not expected that he or Senator Clarke will return to Washington to vote. Senator Foster will remain in Washington and vote with his party.

A canvass of the senate has not developed the necessary two-thirds affirmative votes, even counting all Republicans as present or paired. If the statement of the Democrats that there will be no division in their party proves correct, or if the two Louisiana senators and Clark of Arkansas should vote against it, there is no chance for ratification of the treaty.

The affirmative and negative on the treaty took on a decided partisan bias. Senators Teller, Morgan and other Democrats opposed the treaty and criticized the administration severely. The first speech was made by Senator Teller, who asserted that the administration could not be blameless in permitting Commander Dillingham to exercise so much authority. Fault was found particularly with Commander Dillingham for his action in taking control of the port of Monte Cristi. Into this discussion there was injected many pointed questions in which practically all of the Democrats participated. So harsh was the criticism of the administration that Senator Spooner devoted nearly half an hour to a general defense of the course of the department of state. He disclaimed for the department responsibility for a great part of the procedure of the naval officer. Senators Foraker and Cullom followed along the same lines.

Firebug Blamed For Holocaust.

New York, March 15.—Nineteen persons were burned to death in the fire which destroyed the five-story tenement house at 105 Allen street. More than 40 were injured and only a few of the sleeping inmates escaped unharmed. Several of those who perished were roasted to death in plain view of thousands in the streets. Coroner Goldenkranz declared after an investigation that he had reason to believe the blaze was the work of an incendiary. He issued subpoenas for the fire marshal, tenement house and building inspectors and health and police officials to appear before him at the inquest Thursday. The fire started in the basement and spread with terrible rapidity to the roof. The victims were caught in traps of flames, the halls and exits being rendered impassable in a few minutes after the blaze started. The building was one of the usual crowded tenements and the disaster was the worst in the history of the East Side.

Wires Put Out.

Chicago, March 15.—The wires of the Postal Telegraph company in Chicago were put out of commission for several hours by a fire in the Stock Exchange building, where the main office of the telegraph company is located. A small blaze in the restaurant in the basement of the building was responsible for the interruption. All the cables of the telegraph company leading to the main operating room, on the thirteenth floor of the building, are run close along the wall of the restaurant, and the blaze soon spread to these conduits. The fire, together with the water poured in on the flames by a dozen fire engines, soon played havoc with the service of the company, and in less than half an hour after the fire started every loop into the operating room was in trouble.

Nibbled at the Bait.

Baltimore, Md., March 15.—Sydney Adams, chief clerk of the general delivery division of the Baltimore post-office, pleaded guilty to the charge of robbing the mails and was sentenced to serve three years in the Maryland penitentiary. Adams had been clerk in the postoffice 20 years. Two weeks ago he was seen to take a decoy letter which, with marked bills, was found on his person when he was arrested. He confessed that he had been stealing letters containing money for several months.

WHEN YOU THINK OF A BLOOD PURIFIER THINK OF SSS

The Most Popular and Widely-Known Blood Purifier
GUARANTEED PURELY VEGETABLE

This is the season that tests the quality of your blood, and if it is not good, then evidences of it will begin to show as the weather grows warmer. Carbuncles and boils, pimples and blotches, and numerous itching and burning skin eruptions will make their appearance, and are sure indications of bad blood. If spring-time finds you with impure, sickly blood, then you are in poor condition to withstand the strain upon the system which always comes at this time of the year. A failure to look after your physical welfare now, by purifying the blood and tuning up the general system, may result in a complete breaking down of health later on, and you will find yourself weak and run down, with no appetite, and a prey to indigestion and nervousness. It is poor blood that makes weak bodies, for it is this vital fluid that must supply vigor and strength to our systems, and upon its purity rests our chances for health. Any impurity, humor or poison in the blood acts injuriously upon the system and affects the general health. It is to the morbid, unhealthy matter in the blood that chronic sores and ulcers are due. The pustular and scaly skin eruptions so common during spring and summer, show the blood to be in a riotous, feverish condition, as a result of too much acid or the presence of some irritating humor or acid poison in the blood. A large per cent. of human ailments have their origin in a polluted, diseased blood, and can only be reached by a remedy that goes into the circulation and uproots and expels the poison and restores the blood to a healthy, natural condition. If Springfield, Ohio, May 16, 1903.

On two occasions I have used your S. S. S. in the spring with fine results. I can heartily recommend it as a tonic and blood purifier. I was troubled with headaches, indigestion and liver trouble, which all disappeared under the use of a few bottles of your great blood remedy, S. S. S. My appetite, which was poor, was greatly helped. I can eat anything I want now without fear of indigestion, and my blood has been thoroughly cleansed of impurities and made rich and strong again. As a tonic and blood purifier it is all you claim for it.

you have any symptoms of bad blood, and are thinking of a blood purifier, then think of S. S. S., a remedy with a long-established reputation and that has proven itself to be a specific in diseases of the blood, and a superior tonic and system builder. S. S. S. contains no mercury, potash, arsenic or other mineral, but is composed exclusively of vegetable ingredients, selected for their medicinal properties and gathered from nature's store-houses—the fields, and forests. The thousands who have used S. S. S. and know from experience what it will do in blood troubles, do not need to be reminded of a blood purifier now, for they know no better can be found than S. S. S. If you are thinking of a blood purifier, think of S. S. S., which has been sold for nearly fifty years, while the demand is greater now than ever in its history. No remedy without merit could exist so long and retain the confidence of the people. Write us if in need of medical advice, which is given without charge.

Effect of the Storm.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15.—The day dawned clear and cool in Los Angeles, and it is apparent that the great storm that has raged almost incessantly along the southern coast for the past 48 hours is over. As far as can be learned but one life has been lost as a result of the storm, that of a laborer, who was drowned near Cajon pass. The total damage, scattered over a wide stretch of territory, is conservatively estimated at an amount in excess of $500,000.

Wynne Declines a Gift.

Washington, March 15. — Former Postmaster General Wynne has declined a gift of a solid silver punch bowl, tendered him by former subordinates in the postoffice department. The bowl had been purchased before Mr. Wynne learned of the movement, but when informed of it he promptly announced his determination not to accept because of his conviction that it would be a violation of the law prohibiting government employees from making gifts to their superiors.

OLD HOME WEEK TO BE A GALA ONE

Cut out the announcement below and send it to some friend who formerly resided in this county.

OLD-HOME WEEK
COSHOCTON, OHIO,
August 7 to 12, 1905.

The purpose is for all former Coshocton residents to visit the old home the same week. It will be a glad home-coming for all, because all the old friends will be there too.

The sons and daughters of the old town and county who have emigrated to the various quarters of the earth are invited and expected back to their native heath during Old-Home Week. The fires of youth and fond friendships will be rekindled and old hearts made young again. It will be a season of gladness, festivity and joy. It will outlive the days of Aun Lang Syne. Remember the date and visit the old home during that week. Send your name and address to the president or secretary of the Old-Home Week society, and full information will be sent you from time to time.

G. B. McGay, President.

The Month of Sacrifices

March is the month of sacrifices in this shoe store. It is the month of making room, and getting ready for the new goods that are coming. It is the month that prices are cut to cost—when profit is lost sight of.

You are fortunate if you have a shoe want in March. It means a big saving.

We are clearing out several lots of Men's and Women's shoes—broken lots—lines to be discontinued, but all of this season's buying.

Compare our present prices with what you've been used to paying—and note the saving.

"COSHOCTON" IS A TONGUE TWISTER

The name of our city is a jaw-breaker for strangers and hardly one in a hundred spell it correctly the first time they try but the limit was reached when a letter was received by Clerk Zack Neighbor at the Park hotel addressed to one of the guests at the hotel. The city was spelled "Kerschocton" and by what system of phonetic spelling this result was reached it is impossible to explain. Nevertheless the name was close enough for the postal clerk to understand that the writer meant Coshocton and the missive came through safely.

NISBET WILL RETURN HERE

R. B. Hutchinson, the Pittsburger who was here several weeks ago in regard to the establishment of a chain mill here, is in the city and states to The Age that his associates still have the matter under consideration and will take it up with the board of trade this spring. He is here in the interests of the city street railway company that Ed. A. Nisbet started going, and says Mr. Nisbet will probably be here within a few days.

FOR ELKS' MINSTRELS

The last rehearsal for the Elks minstrel will be held at the Sixth Street theatre this evening. The costumes have arrived from Cleveland and the visiting brethren may be pleased with the show. That the minstrel will be a success goes without saying. Your friends will be roasted and possibly you may have one handed to you with the wrappings removed. It will be clean and wholesome and up-to-date in every respect and those who attend will have almost three hours of solid enjoyment. The curtain will rise promptly at eight o'clock instead of 8:15 as is the usual custom. The program is long and must be started a little earlier on this account.

COSHOCTON HUNTERS PAY ZANESVILLE TIDY SUM

Speaking of the fine imposed upon Will Robertson, of this city, for that famous Adamsville quail hunt, the Zanesville Signal thus recapitulates: This makes the second of these four cases to be finally settled. One other of the men, Peter Zerbe, pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs while T. C. Elson stood trial and was found guilty. His fine was fixed at $50 and the costs taxed at $146.60 but he has appealed his case to the common pleas court and it is not yet settled. That of Charles Waddell is yet to be heard from.

Counting the fine and costs in the case against Elson the total amounts assessed against these three men as the result of their hunting 'rip near Adamsville amounts to $283.20.

MINISTER WAS TOO NUMEROUS

[By Telegraph to The Age.]
New Brunswick, N. J., March 15.—After six hours' deliberation the jury which tried J. Frank Cordova, the former South River minister who eloped with Julia Bowne, one of his choir singers, for abandoning his wife, came into court with a verdict of "guilty as indicted." Cordova appeared to be greatly shaken by the verdict. He will probably be sentenced on Saturday. The extreme penalty is imprisonment for one year. As soon as the case was given to the jury the second indictment against the ex-minister was called. It accuses him of assault and battery upon his wife

TRUANT PUPIL IS IN JAIL

Joseph Mooney, a lad of nine years who resides in the board of trade second addition near the glass works, and who attends school in Miss Wagner's room in the Bancroft building when he feels like it, and stays away when he feels like it, is paying the penalty for his wrong-doings by being locked up in the city prison. He has been giving Truancy Officer Clark a great deal of trouble and as a last resort he was locked up and may mend his ways as even the monotony of school life is far better than a barren cell in the city prison.

Duck Hunters Go Forth.
Seth Snyder and James Preston went to Walhonding Wednesday morning with a canoe and guns and will come down the river duck hunting. P. D. Johnston and two other bold hunters went to Newcomers town early Wednesday morning and will come down the Tuscarawas in canoes hunting the luckless quackers.

Policemen Change Beats.
Wednesday was the important day of the month for the policemen of the city. They are placed on different beats on the fifteenth of each month and all are shifted around. Officer Hankins who has been on night duty is now a day patrolman and Officer Gorman goes on the night force. Another thing which makes day an important one to them is the fact that it is the complementarily pay day.

NO SILVER AT THE MINT

[By Telegraph to The Age.]
Philadelphia, March 15.—With the entire available supply of silver bullion completely disposed of, and no immediate indications of future receipts from the treasury department at Washington, 125 employees in the counting and weighing departments at the mint, mostly women, have been indefinitely suspended. Chief Clerk Norris said that if congress had authorized the converting of the 104,000,000 silver dollars stored in the mint into subsidiary coin, there would be no necessity of reducing the force.

STRIKERS CRY "TREACHERY"

[By Telegraph to The Age.]
Washington, March 15 — Charges have been filed with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, which are said to reflect on the integrity of individuals connected with the subway and elevated strike in New York. Mr. Gompers said the charges would be investigated. It is said that the charges contain allegations that the strike was engineered for the sole purpose of being broken. Officials of the union, it is declared, received or expected to receive a large reward for bringing about the strike.
